FACTS ABOUT THE FAIR.

The Scottish Games the Feature of Yesterday.

BIG MILITARY PARADE TO-DAY Record of the Racing and Notes About the Exhibition.

The State Fair opened yesterday in its twenty-'ourth annual exhibition.

First days are not generally popular with this occasion the dust, the accumulation of long months of drought, was over and long months of drought, was over and about everything—in the sky above and the earth beneath. It required some nerve on the part of those who had no call at the Fair beyond pleasure to venture out, but there were a few thousand of such who braved the discomforts of the day. Some appeared on the grounds with linen dusters, some with overcoats, many with such old weather-beaten suits as were not likely WATER. The sprinkling done by the Society was of some little benefit. They had, for this purpose, to haul water from the city. All on the grounds and in the old Hermitage spring (where there was a steam-pump at work) was needed for the cattle. Had there here water in hydrants on the spect.

which the wind raised from the sun-baked been water in hydrants on the spot sprinkling might have been much better done.

The suggestion made after the dusty experience of 1883, which was akin to that of yesterday, may now be judiciously repeated—viz., that the Society go to work to get eity water on the grounds. Then they will not be wholly at the mercy of the dust. To-day's exhibit would have been seriously impaired had not a fine rain fallen last night and removed the dust question from consideration.

consideration. Is the Fair a success?

Yes, moderately. The horse department will do very well indeed.

Of cattle there are many fine specimens, of cattle there are many fine specimens, but all the stalls are not occupied. So with sheep and hogs. The drought has been so severe people have been afraid to start their animals away from home.

The poultry exhibit is good.

Machmery Hall is almost empty, but the field about is covered with the products of Richmond and northern workshops. Richmond excels in her manufactories of agricultural implements, and here there are specimens showing all the recent and best advances in labor-saving machinery. There are steam-engines—traction and stationary—for farm and other purposes, windmils, &c.

A feature of the Fair is "the improved tractional self-receding saw-mill head-block," exhibited by the Tanner & Delaney Engine Company, who have provided Engine Company, who bave provided themselves with a pile of saw-logs to show the machinery in practical operation. The display of vegetables, grains, &c., is

LADIES' PARLOR.

On the first floor of the main hall there are exhibited pianos, organs, sewing-ma-chines, stoves, frunks, cut and potted flowers, costly collins, &c. Also, a splen-did collection of fruits; more particularly apples.

The drought, long, hard, severe, blighting on most things, seems to have brought the apples out in the perfection of size, sweetness, and color. The Albemarie pippins are most admired, but winesays and other kinds also appear in great glory.

Of penches, a plateful called Richmond Gem (named by Mr. Milton Cayee), are notable for flavor and size.

Fine specimens of the Japanese persimmon are exhibited. They are as large as an apple, and of a reddish-yellow color, and have much of the flavor of the Virginia persimmon when they are green, but ripe are sweet and luscious, and superior to our indigenous fruit of this sort.

The show of ledies' work is admirable; better than for years. In the same room (second floor) are splendid samples of the goods for gentlemen's clothing, manufactured by both the Richmond and Charlottesville woollen-mills.

lottesville woollen-mills. ART.

The Art Department (octagonal building) The Art Department (octagonal building) is poor. There are some excellent productions of our amateurs in decorated china, &c., but, as a whole exhibit, Richmond cannot be proud of it. A colored man, a stevedore here, shows in the annex a full-rigged schooner of about five or six feet long, which is highly creditable to his patience and workmanship.

In a building opposite the Art Department—across the avenue leading from the Main Hall to the Grand Stand—the ladies of the Fourth Presbyterian church have a restaurant.

of the Posts of the restaurant.

In the Miscellaneous Hall—west of the octagonal building—there are a number of exhibits of cigars, cigarettes, groceries, &c.

THE BEES. In this same neighborhood will be found In this same neighborhood will be found the bee-tent. There are two or three exhibits under it, and they are a special attraction of the Fair. Here "the busy bee" may be seen at work, and the exhibitors tell a hundred interesting things about their life. Machinery nowadays comes in to help the bee along. The foundation work, the outward layers of wax, are made by man and put in the hive, and gives the bee outle a start in husiness.

One hive bears this inscription: "This was a present from King Otto, of Greece, to Richard Colvin, of Baltimore." The Scattish Games.

The Scottish athletic games at the Fair The Scottish athletic games at the rain-Grounds yesterday commenced at 12 o'clock in front of the President's office, near the main building, and were witnessed by a large number of people, who manifested considerable interest in the sport. The third prizes in each game was, by agree-ment, awarded to persons residing in Vir-ciais. The cames were under the manage-Caledonian Club. Messrs. Peter Copeland, Archibald Hutcheon, and Robert Simwere the judges.

The first game was throwing the light bammer. First prize, $18; second, $10; third, $7. The following persons entered for the contest: William Robertson, of New York city; James Phillips, of Cincianati; Duncan C. Ross, of Cleveland, Ohlo; Patrick O'Donnell, of Canada; Alexander Dick, Humphrey Calder, George Lumsden, and Peter Copeland, of Richmond. The first prize was won by Duncan C. Ross, whose throw was 110 feet 2 inches; third, Alexander Dick, 78 feet 3 inches.

The second game was the running high jump. First prize, $12; second, $8; third, $5. The following persons entered: William Robertson, of New York: James Phillips, of Cincinnati; Duncan C. Ross, of Cleveland, Ohio; Patrick O'Donnell, of Canada; George Lumsden, of Richmond. The jumping was not considered good for professionals, the ground being so hard that the participants were rather afraid of getting hurt. William Robertson won first prize, jumping 5 feet 5 inches; Duncan C. Ross second, jumping 5 feet 3 inches; George Lumsden third, jumping 4 feet 6 inches.

The third game was putting the stone, fourteen pounds, three throws cach. First prize, $18; second, $10; third, $7. The following persons entered: Duncan C. Ross. William Robertson, James Phillips.

prize, $18; second, $10; third, $7. The following persons entered: Duncan C. Ross, William Robertson, James Phillips, Humpbrey Calder, Alexander Dick, George Lumsden, Patrick O'Donnell. The first prize was won by Duncan C. Ross, length of put, forty-five feet four inches; second. William Robertson, forty-one feet; third, James Phillips, thirty-one feet six inches. The fourth game was the short race (150 yards). First prize, $12; second. $3; third, $5. The following persons entered: Dancan C. Ross, William Robertson, James Phillips, Patrick O'Donnell, and John Keiley. Ross won easily; O'Donnell second, and Phillips third.

The fifth game was vaulting with pole.

and Phillips third.

The fifth game was vaulting with pole. First prize, $15; second, $9; third. $6. The following persons entered: William Robertson, Pat. O'Donnell, George Lumsden, James Phillips. The first prize was awarded to Robertson, who vaulted nine feet; second to O'Donnell, who vaulted eight feet; third to George Lumsden, who vaulted seven feet six inches. In this game much interest was taken.

the sixth game was a sack race (over hurdles eighteen inches high). First prize, $12; second, $6; third, $5. The following persons entered: William Robertson, James Phillips, George Lumsden, and John Kel-ing the caber 39 feet 2 inches; Robertson second, 37 feet 9 inches; and Dick third, 36 feet 7 inches.

The eighth game was running hop, step, and jump. First prize, $12; second, $8; third, $5. The following contestants entered: Patrick O'Donnell, William Robertson, James Phillips, John Kelley, Alexander Dick, and Duncan C. Ross. Patrick O'Donnell won the first prize, 37 feet 5 inches; Robertson second, 37 feet 2 inches: James Phillips third, 32 feet 4 inches.

The ninth game was a hurdle race (3 feet 6 inch hurdles). First prize, $10; second, $6; third, $4. The following entered: William Robertson, Pat. O'Donnell, James Phillips. George Lumsden, and P. O'Donald. Robertson won the first; O'Donnell second, and Phillips the third prize in this centest.

The tenth game was a running long jump, In it Duncan C. Ross won the first prize, $10; John Kelley the second, $6; and Pat. O'Donnell the third, $4.

The eleventh game was a three-legged rece. First prize, $9; second, $6; third, $4. Ross and Robertson won the first money; A. Johnson and E. Jenkins the second, and Dick and Phillips the third money. money. The twelfth game an egg-race (twenty eggs in a row, one yard a rart). The following contested: John Kelley, William Robertson, P. O'Donnell, L. D. Robertson, James Phillips, Adam Johnston, and Alex. Dick. Kelly won the first money; Robertson the second, and P. O'Donnell the

The ene-mile race was won by John Keliv. Time, 4:55. His competitors were James Phillips and P. O'Donnell.

The principal feature of interest in the varied entertainment was the wrestling match between Duncan C. Ross and Pat. O'Donnell. A large number of people witnessed it. In the first round O'Donnell's back was laid to the ground, but in the second, after a lengthy tussle, he succeeded in similarly placing Ross. In the third, after a warm and spirited struggle, Ress won the match, throwing O'Donnell the best two in three times, and took the prize, $80.

There was quite a good erowd in the grand stand for the first day of the fair, and considerable interest was manifested in the races. The track was, considering the great drought, in tolerably fair condition. The irrotting trivils were run between the heats of the running races. The judges of the former were Dr. D. S. Watson, Captain E. D. Starke, and Mr. C. P. Stokes. Captain A. G. Babcock was timer. For the running races the judges were Major William R. Johnson, Major Snowden Andrews, Mr. Daingerfield Lewis, Mr. Winfield Scott, and Captain Foxhall Daingerfield, of Harrisonburg, Va. The races, taken as a whole, were quite fair. The first running race was especially interesting, and hotly contested.

Eight of the ten entries came to the start. Gypsy took the lead from the first. Blue Wing pressing her at the second quarter, and when she broke passing her at the half mile. The mare then came down to her work, but could not regain the ground she had lost. Blue Wing won the heat, followed by Gypsy, with Vivet third, Gabriel fourth, and Stonecutter fifth; Sue, Lotta, and Nellie Baker were distanced. Time, 2:58.

On the second heat Blue Wing took the lead from the start, followed closely by Gypsy. Stonecutter broke badly and ran through the second and much of the third quarter, passing Gypsy at the half mile. At this point three of the horses broke badly. At the third quarter Gypsy was passing Stonecutter, who had been running up to that time and held the second place. Blue Wing won the heat and race; Gypsy coming in second, Vivet fourth, and Gabriel fifth. Stonecutter was put back to the last place by the judges on account of run-

Richmond having the inside track, Toodles, Jr., next, and Pine Straw on the outside. They were slow in starting, having to be called back several times. This is almost always a bad feature with the trotting races at the Fair. The judges will have to be more possitive in ruling out such jockying hereafter. When a start was finally made, Pme Straw broke badly from the "go." Richmond shot far shead of the others on the first quarter, and it was at that early stage of the race evident that there would be no contest for this place, the only place being between Toodles and Pine Straw for second money. Toodles held second place on second and third quarters and finish. Richmond won the heat easily, jogging in on the homestretch. Time, 3:12.

At the second heat the horses came to the string and the drummer gave the start under a misapprehension. The bugle was sounded to call them back, but two, not heeding the call, jogged around the track, and Richmond's driver clatmed the race His claim was very properly ruled out. notwithstanding there was some display at "kicking." The drivers seemed little disposed to come to the start, and the patience of the audience was sorely tried by the loss of time thereby occasioned. At last the word "go" was given by the judges. Pine Straw broke on the first quarter. Richmond made an easy lead at first, but overstretched himself and broke badly at the half mile. When Toodles and Pine Straw both shot ahead of him. Toodles was leading on the third quarter, with Richmond closing up with him. Richmond took the lead on the home-stretch and won the race, with Toodles close upon his heels. Time, 3:07.

an industrial fair at Odd-Feilows' Hall Monday. Their committee had gathered samples of work of various kinds from all over the State and other places, and by an artistic arrangement of these specimens were enabled to present a fine display to their many friends who have visited the fair since it opened.

The daily contributions are still large. Among the most noticeable articles are samples of fine lace- and needlework, waxwork, wood-work, sigars, manufactured tobacco, pottery, &c., &c. All of the samples are good, and evince skill in their making, and will compare favorably with those exhibited at most fairs. They testify to the great improvement of the colored race in the last few years in invention, art, and workmanship.

race in the last few years in invention, art, and workmanship.

An engine carved of wood by Jordan Scott, a twelve-year-eld boy, is comparatively the finest piece of work. It works well and is complete in all respects, bell and all. The pictures painted by J. H. Burke and the photographs made by J. C. Farly are very fine. There are also other fine paintings. One of the samples of lacework (a handkerchief) is extraordinarily fine: it is valued at $15. Two of the most striking and beautiful pieces of needlework are a lambrequin made by a girl in Portsmouth and a silk-scrap quilit.

The Clerk read the following:

Hon. Charles E. Sluart, Speaker of the House of Delegates of Virginia:

Dear Sir,—The regular annual meeting of the Virginia Division of the Army of Northern Virginia will be held in this elty to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. All of the former meetings have been held in this hall, and it will be almost impossible to get any other place now for the meeting this year. I was instructed by the Executive Committee to obtain the Governor's consent to the use of the hall as usual, or's consent to the use of the eentive Committee to obtain the Coveri-or's consent to the use of the hall as usual, and on application received from him the enclosed appropriate reply.

LUNATIC ASYLUMS INVESTIGATION. Mr. Stribling offered the report of the Joint Committee of Investigation of the Lunatic Asylums of the State, and on his motion the same was passed by, and ordered to be printed.

The report was voluminous and exhaustive, embracing every variety of statistics. The committee found no frauds or misapplication of funds.

The committee recommends several important changes in the management of the asylums, and made many interesting suggestions. The report was too lengthy to be read.

By Mr. Cardwell: Amending the act extending the time for repairing and rebuilding mills and machinery burned during the war.

By Mr. Porter: Authorizing the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad Company to invest in and operate railroad and transportation lines in this and other States.

On motion of Mr. Gibson, adjourned.

The Caucus.

Immediately after the adjournment of the Assembly the Democratic members met in conference in the Senate chamber, with Mr. Absalom Koiner presiding. The object was to consider the question of extending the session and the time for the adjournment of the present session. These matters were thoroughly ventilated, and a resolution was adopted which provides for an extra session to commence on the 11th of November, at which time the present session of ninety days expires. In order to pass a joint resolution carrying into effect the extra-session idea it will be necessary to obtain the consent of three fifths of the members of the Assembly; and as that number of Democrats are not here, steps will be taken to secure their attendance should they fail to appear to-day. Without coming to a conclusion with regard to the question of adjournment, the caucus adjourned to meet at the same place to-night at 8 o'clock.
